THE AMERICAN PRESS.

WHAT A SCOTCH OBSERVER SAYS OF OUR NEWSPAPERS.

The Vast and Valuable Service Performed in the Interests of the Public-Detection of Crime and Fraud-Work of Reporters and Editors

The American press is the most incomprehensible of American institutions to strangers. Day after day its columns are freighted with astounding crimes, with marvelous adventures, with social scandals, with political programmes and religious heresies. One wonders how it is possible such surprises should be constantly happening, and how their details should be so exhaustively wrought out. But the astonishment subsides when it is known that the American press in organization, in enterprise, in talent leads the world; that it deals not with one country, as in the Old World, but represents a whole continent; that the population it controls and informs is drawn from every European and several Asiatic nations; that among these are crowds of dangerous and lawless emigrants, some of whom have escaped from European jails and many from the European police. And whatever contempt for law and order the native American may inherit is deepened by contact with the frenzied men driven to American shores by the regimes of Bismarck and Salisbury.

· DETECTION OF CRIME.

Forced upon it by such surroundings the American press has accepted functions which no other nation's newspapers have had delegated to them. The foremost of these has been the detection of crime and the defeat of fraud, and in the performance of both tasks American press men have won the admiration of the American people, and ought to be a source of pride and surprise to press men everywhere. American criminals may tamper with American judges; they may evade the police; they may defy the law; they are never safe from the press. Again and again have assassins been hung on the gallows wholly through the astuteness and amazing ability of American press reporters. Again and again have scandalous swindles been exploded through the single handed efforts of press men. The great Tweed ring was burst up by the persistency of newspaper men. The Preller murder was cleared up through the acuteness of press inquiries but Illustrations are endless.

Why such services are seldom attempted by the British press is easily explained. The British press man is a short hand writer, whose work is mainly to re produce the speeches of the people who would hardly be listened to on this side of the Atlantic. In America verbatim reporting is hardly wanted; it is reckoned a very secondary accomplishment. The American press man must have requirements the British reporter may do without. The American must be a born detective, have an intuitive faculty of following up the course criminals, adventurers and delinquents pursue in planning crimes and evading their conviction. He must have an address which fits all sorts of people on all sorts of occasions. He praying for reasons increased that the state of the said petitioner or to some other suitable person.

Thereupon it is ordered that Monday, the 23d the form the form the form the form the form the county seat I asked him what he intentions of both. The American press. must be equally ready to speak on level world, who can represent his journal under any circumstances, and this is at once apparent to any stranger who has opportunities of coming in contact with the leading representatives of the New York

A GREAT CONTRAST.

To any one who has seen the position old country press men have to bend to the contrast is great. The American who forgets that an American press man is an American gentleman would find himself rebuked in a wav he never would forget. But such rudeness is hardly ever risked. The high position taken by the staff of the American newspapers is too widely recognized, and men of the proudest position are pleased to meet the American interviewer, treat him graciously and give him whatever assistance is wanted. To be polite, frank and affable is the American's prerogative. The Old World snob who affects airs meets with enpreme ridicule in the United States. I have met one or two in the hotels utterly horrified at American familiarity; even the negro waiters laugh at their comical pretensions. There is none of the rivalry and shop jealousy between the staff of one American paper and the staff of another so absurdly fostered in the old country. The American press men treat each other as gentlemen simply because they are so. Bad manners and stupidity go together, and I have not come across any stupid press men in America. Editors and city editors make no distinction of persons in their staff, and they have no reason to do American press. A canny Scotchman without brains could not keep a berth on Dam—Fanny Mapes, by Alexander's Abdallah 15, sire of Goldsmith Maid 2:14. Fanny Mapes is dam of Jerome hours. With such racking work of brain Eddy 2:16‡, Regulator 2:32‡, George and body, it may be surmised, the strain is tremendous, and in proof the American press man's professional life is a short one. Among the many American newspaper men I cannot recollect seeing one white haired man. No doubt some of the more brilliant press men find their way into congress and into public life, and not a few fall into other and more lucrative pursuits. Many of the American millionaires have started life as interviewers and owe their success to the training so obtained. And no other point can better il-Instrate the ability so essentially interlaced with the American press. Night watchmen have very different experiences winter and summer. When other folks enjoy themselves in the city, they have to work hardest. The night watchman's fun begins when the big houses on Fifth avenue are closed for the summer. OUR NEIGHBOR'S PITY.

That day our little one lay dead, And we were sad and sore of heart, And all the joy of life seemed fied. Our neighbor sought to ease the smart. Oh! strange sweet power of sympathy! That grief should find assuagement thus!

Our sorrow seemed the less to be, The more we thought, she pities us! And then she said, how blest was she, Since God had still denied her prayer, Nor set a baby on her knee;

For such a gift meant such a care! Our pain was stilled by sad surprise; New feelings in our heart did stir, We looked into our neighbor's eyes, And pitied her—and pitied her. —Daniel McIntyre Henderson. The Consumption of Peanuts.

"The total consumption last year," said a dealer, "was about 3,100,000 bags, an increase of 400,000 bags over the previous year, and exceeding the consumption of five years ago by more than 1,000,-000 bags. "Assuming that 3,000,000 bags of peanuts were consumed last year, what does that represent in money?" "Well, in round numbers, it means the consumption of 100,000,000 quarts, and at the regular price charged by retailers and venders, which is ten cents per quart, it shows that peanut eaters paid $10,000,-000 to gratify their liking. Probably onehalf of this large sum is clear profit to the retailers, as the value of the crop to the growers is estimated at less than $2,000,000.—New York Mail and Express.

It has been so often described by numerous writers that no further description is here necessary. School teachers here have been unable to see any difference between the intellect of those whose heads have thus been flattened and those which are natural. Some of the Indians, however, believe that it has caused numerous headaches among them in after life. Very few infants are thus treated now .- Cor. American Antiquarian.

Candy for Philadelphia. Philadelphia claims to make and eat more candy in proportion to population than any other city in the country. There are eighty-seven manufacturers and wholesalers and 1,200 retailers, and they use more than $1,000,000 of capital and consume 100,000 tons of sugar every year. Caramels are a great specialty of the trade in that city. For other places much chocolate and walnut candy and many gum drops are made. Six tons of gum drops were shipped from Philadelphia to Pittsburg the week before Christmas. Brooklyn makes the most chewing gum, it is said, and Boston eats the most of it. -New York Sun.

In Southeastern Tennessee. "One day a man whom I met," said the Chicago man, "had occasion to go from his home to the county seat. He was a man of more intelligence than most of his fellows, but he had never in his life been away from home before. He had never seen a town. The nearest approach to one intentions of both. Separation Sought.

Music-"The Tars' Farewell"

Mrs. Lizzie Taylor of Bangor, by Calvin Cross and W. N. Cook, her solicitors, seeks a legal separation from her husband, Harvey F. Taylor, alleging as valid reasons therefor that, during the past three years, the said Harvey has treated her with extreme cruelty, by indulging in violent sallies of passion and in abusive language in the presence of their children, friends and neighbors, and that without any cause or provocation; that he has wantonly and cruelly refused and neglected to provide for herself and children, and that they have been compelled to rely upon their friends and relatives for maintenance and support; that he has repeatedly struck her violent and cruel blows with his fist, at the same time swearing at her and trying to push her upon the hot stove, and that he has been guilty of other extreme cruelty toward her.

She also alleges that her husband is an unfit person to have the care and custody of their minor children and alleges that she fears he will take them from her unless restrained by order of the court, and prays that an injunction she must be a reglur whale. "-Chicago may be issued restraining him from so from so doing.

A Merchant's Opinion.

Mr. B. F. Nourse, general western agent Royal Baking Powder Co., writes: "I have never found so great results from physicians' prescriptions and attendance upon our children as I have after a few days' use of Papillon (extract of flax) Skin cure. I cannot describe to you medically what it has done for us, but can say that years of treatment The American Publishing Company, have not necomplished the Large bottles have not accomplished what Papillon has only $1, at C.
